

.NET NEWS

Five stories that matter

June–August 2026

30 minutes / developer edition

Today's route

- 1 Model states safely
- 2 Build safer web apps
- 3 Control your test runs
- 4 Ship smaller apps
- 5 Beat the support deadline

Three previews. One direction.

Preview 5, Preview 6, Preview 7

The preview train

P5

BUILDING BLOCKS

JSON Lines
Full outer joins
Union declarations

P6

CONNECTED STACK

Async validation
OpenAPI 3.2
AOT CLI

P7

READY FOR WORK

Test controls
HTTP compression
MSBuild server

Six additions worth remembering

JSON Lines

A U B

Full outer joins

HTTP

Request
compression

DNS

Record APIs

0.1

Decimal floating point

ZIP

Password support

Make states visible in code.

C# 15 and application frameworks

One result. Three possible states.

Success

Declined

Error

The compiler can help you handle every case.

The framework adds guardrails.

Async validation

Automatic CSRF protection

OpenAPI 3.2

Framework highlights

EF Core

Cleaner SQL
Better migrations
Earlier async warnings

.NET MAUI

Passkeys
Incremental Hot Reload
AOT-safe bindings

Pick the column that matches your project.

The toolchain gets friendlier.

Tests, Native AOT, containers, and AI integration

Stop runaway tests.

--timeout

--maximum-failed-tests

Traversal projects

Less pipeline glue. Clearer limits.

Large app in.
Small executable out.

Native AOT CLI enabled by default in Preview 7

Measure startup, memory, and compatibility.

MCP becomes a normal .NET project

dotnet new

MCP Server

A template saves setup time.

Start read-only.
Use safe data.
Log every call.

The deadline is already close.

Support ends for .NET 8 and .NET 9 on November 10

November 10, 2026

10

WEEKS ARE MORE VALUABLE
THAN DAYS

NOW

Inventory

NEXT

Upgrade spike

THEN

Test + rollout

What should we do Monday?

- 1 Find every .NET 8 and .NET 9 workload
- 2 Upgrade one representative service
- 3 Try one .NET 11 feature in a branch
- 4 Keep monthly servicing on schedule

RECAP

Explore the future. Protect production.

EXPLORE

.NET 11

One feature
One experiment
One measured result

PROTECT

.NET 8 + 9

Patch now
Migrate early
Finish before Nov 10